Scott Conrad, the Oscar winning editor, began his career at 20th Century Fox, working his way up from the mailroom. Searching for his niche and learning about the craft of filmmaking, Scott was drawn to film editing. After returning to school at USC's School of Cinema, Scott leapt at the chance to assist on 'Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid'. He moved from apprentice to assistant editor, thus launching his career as an editor. Shortly after, Scott cut the cult classic 'A Boy and His Dog' and, two years later, his work on 'Rocky' garnered an Academy Award. A master of his craft for over 30 years, Scott Conrad's exemplary work in all genres has resulted in numerous awards and accolades from his peers. He holds a current US passport and is available for work worldwide.
